b) The items to be sold, their quality and rates should be announced before the auction/allotment etc. The type of shop, name of the contractor, period of allotment as well as rates/quality of the items to be sold should be displayed in front of each shop. A common rate list of important items should also be displayed by the GM at another prominent place at the bus stand.

c) The Depot Level Committee may decide as to which of the above mentioned shops should be set up on a particular bus stand keeping in view the availability of space & requirement. The committee may also decide as to which are the essential shops required for the convenience of passengers and which are non-essential shops being set up at the bus stand from commercial point of view.

d) The Depot Level Committee may decide which of the above mentioned shops can be set up at the first floor of the bus stand. Restaurant, Fast Food eating joint, Internet Cafe etc. can easily be set up on the first floor.

e) Good number of parties should be available for biding and there should be fair competition. No pooling should be allowed.

f) If the auction bid for some essential shop(s) is not up to the mark, the same can be put off for the next auction. As regards non-essential shops, the Depot Level Committee can decide, if changing the type of shop can fetch better rent. Accordingly if some non-essential shop is not fetching good rent, in the next advertisement the type of shop may be changed as per requirement.

g) While leasing out of the shops the committee may give preference to the unemployed graduates who are domiciles of Haryana, provided other things including laid down criteria/procedure are complied with.

v) Mode of allotment:

The shops mentioned above as well as Cloak Rooms, Cycle/Scooter Stand and Car Parking are to be auctioned by the respective Depot Level Committees keeping in view the policy guidelines/rules. The sites for Bank ATMs would be allotted to the banks giving the best offer. In case some bank is interested in opening an extension counter and is ready to pay the rent to the satisfaction of the Depot Level Committee, the same may be allowed depending upon availability of space. However, preference should be given to the bank from where salary of the staff is drawn and in which Roadways receipts could be deposited.

Leaving aside the Jai Jawan Tea Stalls and Bank ATMs all other shops are to be leased out through open auction as per Govt. rules and terms & conditions given in the policy.
No two stalls/shops should be given to a single contractor or to the family member of the same contractor. An affidavit to this effect should be obtained from each shop contractor. Similarly no employee of the Transport Department or any family member of the employee would be eligible to participate in the auction. Shops should be allotted to different contractors to bring about competition.

vi) Publicity of auction/allotment of shops:

The shops identified for auction/allotment should be properly publicized through the Newspapers indicating the date, time & place of auction etc. A single advertisement may be given by the Head Office for all the depots to save advertisement expenditure. Similarly applications for allotment of various booths etc. may also be invited through the same advertisement. Intimation regarding date of auction may also be sent by the GMs by post to the parties who participated in the previous three auctions in the depots. Auction notices may also be pasted on various Bus Stands by the General Managers.

Detailed terms & conditions may be supplied to the desirous candidates on payment of ₹200/- and also read out at the time of auction. The candidates who are approved by the depot level committee to participate in the auction, should sign the terms and conditions and deposit a security of ₹25,000/- for A-Class Bus Stands, ₹10000/- for B-Class bus stands and ₹7500/- for C-Class Bus Stands before taking part in the auction. In addition to this a post dated signed blank cheque shall be taken from the bidder before participation in the bid. At the fall of the hammer, an amount equivalent to the rent of first three months shall be filled up in the cheque received. If the successful bidder ran away after the acceptance of their bid, the security as well as duly filled cheque shall be forfeited. This security/blank cheque would be returned to unsuccessful candidates immediately after the auction and to the successful candidates, this security/blank cheque will be returned after they sign the contract agreement, deposit the quarterly rent and Bank Guarantee.

The Depot Level Committee should reserve the right to accept or reject any bid without assigning any reason. The auction should be held by the depot level committee as per the rules & procedures in a very transparent manner. The party whose bid is accepted must deposit quarterly rent on the same day or next day forenoon failing which his security would stand forfeited and the committee may either allot the shop to the next bidder or order re-auction.

The auction money of each shop should generally be higher than the last year’s auction. However, if after repeated attempts (minimum three times) certain shop cannot be auctioned at a higher rate and the committee is satisfied that it would be in the interest of the department/Govt. to accept the bid (which is lower than the last year), the committee may temporarily accept the bid and temporarily allot the shop, subject to approval of the Govt. The matter should then be immediately referred to the Govt. for sanction with full justification as required under rule No. 19.7 of the PFR Vol-I.

If the applicant has been holding a shop already at any of the bus stands of Haryana Roadways and his/her reputation has not been good, he may not be allotted a booth and may not be allowed to participate in the auction. Decision of the Depot Level Committee in this regard will be final.
